Limitless Potential

Victims see possibility for someone else and none for themselves. The victim doesn't see possibilities for themselves because they are not willing to operate from a place of responsibility.

They are not willing to put up their own skin to be in the game and will rely on someone else to do it for them.

A victim mindset due to trauma, society, environment, family-will not see themselves as responsible for their victim position. Rescuing them doesn't help either-it just enables them.

Understanding there is a line of responsibility is the gateway to limitless potential. When we own up to everything we do, we are living on our terms and not based on the limited thinking of someone else for us.

The benefits for us with limitless potential are:
1) Expending energy only on things that serve us
2) Giving up the victim mindset
3) Honoring our power of responsibility
